Step one: Open an ISU Credit Union checking account.

Step two: Redirect your Direct Deposit to your new ISU Credit Union account by submitting the attached Direct Deposit Authorization form to your employer. If your employer has a company form they'd like you to use, our form will be useful for finding our routing number, address, etc.

Step three: Redirect automatic payments from your previous account by filling out and sending an Automatic Payment Change Notification form to each company that receives an automatic payment from you.

Step four: To close your checking account at another financial institution, fill out the Checking Account Closure Notification form and send it to the financial institution that currently has your checking account. Make sure all checks have cleared and all automatic payments have been redirected to your ISU Credit Union account before you close your current account
